RICH GOLD DISCOVERY IN UTAIL a Geological Expedit

the San Juan River. NEW YORK, March 18. - There arrived last night a young man who, since Wednesday morning last, has been flying toward this city at the fastest possible rate with a piece of highly interest ing news. His name is Thomas Gordon and he is a member of the Co-operative Community of Liberal Mormons, Bluff, San Juan county, Utah. He is a school teacher and took his pupils on a geological expedition along the San Juan river. They dug up a number of gold nuggets and a quantity of flake gold. All operations were suspended and entire colony went to the bank on noon of Monday, and at the close of daylight on Tuesday there had been taken from the river bed by use of the most primitive methods gold in flakes and tiny nuggets equal to $2,300.

A meeting of the elders decided to distance the first alarm was sent in the southeast patch the school teacher to New York | wall of the building, 60 feet in circumwith letters to influential friends. DANA-NOVES LIBEL CASE. Judge Brown Will Hear Arguments

Tuesday, April 2. New York, March 18 .- The examination of Charles A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun, on a charge of criminal libel preferred by Frank B. Noyes of the Washington Star, came up before Commissioner Shields in the federal building this forenoon. Lawyers Roct and Bartlett, for the defense, insisted that the federal courts in the District of Columbia had no power or right to demand the removal of Mr. Dana from this city to Washington. Commissioner Shields, after hearing the arguments on both sides, issued an order of commitment to Judge Brown of the United States district court, and paroled the defendant in the custody of his lawyers. Mr. MacFarlane and the lawvers for the defense immediately repaired to Judge Brown's court, and the latter said he would hear the arguments on Tuesday, April 2.

KANSAS CITY, March 18 .- The National bank of Kansas City failed to open its doors this morning. The direct cause of the failure was the unfavorable statement of the bank's affairs given out March 15. In the panic of 1893 the bank suspended, but through an arrangement then made the depositors and the stockholders it was permitted to resume business. The steady withdrawal of deposits since that time has placed the bank in an embarrassing position and necessitated its suspension. The statement given out is not complete. It shows assets of $1,080,000; liabilities. $1,050,000. The Star says editorially that none of the other banks of the city the Scale by Ohio Valley Operators. Pertsburg, March 18.—There is much speculation rife concerning the probable outcome of the abrogation of the ironworkers' scale by the Ohio valley operstors. According to the terms of the agreement either side could terminate it by giving 60 days' notice. The Ohio valley iron manufacturers gave the required notice, which will expire on April 1. The exact amount of the reduction they desire is not known. If the lodges refuse to grant the demands of the manufacturers, it may result in another long strike, which would be doubly disastrous in view of the gradual resumption in the iron business that has been going on during the past few months.

Mill Owners Fear Trouble. MINNEAPOLIS, March 18 .- The organizing of the Millers' union among the operatives of the flour mills is the source of some anxiety to the mill proprietors, who evidently fear trouble. T. C. Lauer, head and neck sprained,

The first alarm for the fire came by elephone to the district offices at 10:10 a. m. A few minutes previously a resident of the neighborhood of the roundhouse saw a small flame burst out of the foreman directly across from the roundhouse and notified those in charge. General Foreman Howard summoned the blazing cupola. A heavy wind was blowing and the fire soon ate its way down to the roof of the roundhouse. When Fire Chief Mayo reached the fire he saw that there was danger of the flames reaching the oilhouse, repair shops and the Wabash elevator, all in close proximity, and he immediately sent in a general alarm.

Meanwhile the road's fire company had directed its efforts towards smothering the flames in the southeast end of the structure, which menaced the oilhouse, and the fire at this point was held fairly in check. The roof was al. past two years are "strictly in it, ready ablaze and threatened to collapse every moment, but the falling of the walls was not at this time anticipated. The warning came too late, and 12 of the men were buried in a pile of brick several feet high. That only two were killed outright was nothing short of miraculous. Streams of water were poared on the smoking debris and as soon as possible the work of rescue began. Bowen and Post were buried completely and were dead some time before their bodies were reached.

They were badly crushed, Bowen's features being unrecognizable. Bohlman was taken out in an unconscious condition and removed to his home, where he died a few hours afterward By this time half a dozen physicians was directed toward carrying out the others, though badly used up, will probably all recover. The firemen had a roundhouse, the heavy wind greatly aiding the stubborn flames. At noon the fire was practically under control after destroying all that was inflammable of the building. Mr. MacAdam's Sensational Speech Befo St. Louis Knights of St. Patrick. Sr. Louis, March 18.—The Knights of St. Patrick were treated to a surprise toward the close of their 29th annual banquet, which was held at the Planters hotel. The surprise was a speech by D. H. MacAdam, which created consternation among the assembled guests. MacAdam's first words attracted attention and created pain and amazement as they had never before done. He began by decrying with almost indecorous Weekly Tribune. intensity the character of the speeches that had been delivered during the evening. He claimed that of those present not five men knew the original purpose of the Knights of St. Patrick or cared for them. He did not believe in parliamentary relief. It was futile and fatuous. England would continue to keep prime faith with Ireland, as she had already done, and the only way to bring her to terms and induce her to admit the justice of the Irish cause was by an appeal to force-to the god of wars. He then proposed the toast of "The Fenian Brotherhood," and called upon Dr.

Reilly to respond. Dr. O'Reilly arose, manifestly confused and embarrassed over the awkward situation in which he found himself. Sympathizing with Mr. MacAdam, desired to see Ireland liberated.

EDISON ON THE ARGON DISCOVERY Further Experiments May Disclose Other

New Elements In the Air. NEW YORK, March 18 .- As soon at Thomas A. Edison can find the time he means to learn something about argon, the newly discovered gaseous constituent of the atmosphere. Mr. Edison says that he not only believes in the discovery of Lord Rayleigh and his coworkers, but thinks it probable that further experiments will disclose other new elements in the air.

"To tell the truth," said the electric wizard, "the discovery of argon is a fresh evidence of how little we know even of the commonest matters. The air has been analyzed over and over again for half a century without suspecting that it held any new elements." Mr. Edison explained that his investigations concerning his incandescent lamp showed him phenomena which could only be explained on the hypothesis of a new element. But he was unable to say whether argon was responsible for those phenomena.
